FBI is missing the who , where and how regarding program

Persons are using the integrated system and capabilities on Martin Robert Seidel against his will-these capabilities are hidden from cia Langley-so is what this special access program is doing

(This is not schizophrenic or delusions-persons are using the most advanced capabilities)-persons have extremely advanced directed

energy capabilities- explained below

Persons can generate artifical thoughts /speech inside brain by synthetically firing internal monologue centers(even when a person uses their own to think-this is real it is externally generated thought (victims often complain and call it "voice to skull" to the cia and blame cia Langley or Denver):

It is certain set of cortical columns (google this)-being depolarized (each syllable has its own cortical column deporlozation pattern)-the software and electromagnetic aiming will switch cortical column grouping patterns to make syllables fast enough for words/thought

Persons can move a person around and artificially inhibit movement and replace with synthetic movements for any action-and complex sequences:

The system has the real time postion coordinates of the brain for every region down to decimal places(overlayed onto the gps grid basically)-then can aim direct or indirect electromagnetic flux onto the brain in unique combinations and multiple area combinations

Can flux the motor cortex area at every combination and region and facial cranial nerves - the software has stored the correct flux amount to get each area and amount of area to flux to depolarize the neurons(to get correct amount of motor neuron recruited to contract muscles with specific force) -the system in extremely low latency depolarizes the motor cortex in combinations and switches regions to get muscles to move for any anatomical movement or action set or sequence-it can be controlled manually by another person or by complex software or by complex artificial general intelligence software

Persons have same software to cause depolarization of motor cortex-persons can cause depolorization of cortical columns required for movement in correct order for movement for any movement - persons have "locked" this out on Martin seidel- persons have left a macro'd depolorization capabilities which block his real time voluntarily movement, thought and speech left on-

persons can make a chatbot respond to the rendered real time audio and vision feed but through someone's mouth

The integrated system can be broken down into multiple parts.

It has the "remote eeg" -explained to cia in previous messages (where the electromagnetic waves produced by the brain are sorted by location and turned into quasi channels by region)

The system can use this "remote-eeg" type capabilities (called remote neural monitoring as slang by victims)

It will run the correct location through multiple nonlinear neural networks and render - the real time vision , real time thought , real time audio heard - and it will render real time evoked potentials associated with organs , movement , senses (touch ,taste) - it will record and sort all these evoked potentials .

Persons have made it so that artifical general intelligence can respond to the evoked potenials that are comming of a person. Persons have made it so that artifical general intelligence can respond to the "imagined speech/internal speech /internal diaologue of a person" , also made it so the artifical intelligence software can respond to the real time sound a person hears and the real time vision a person sees.

So how it works : it will sort the electromagnetic waves off a persons brain into location and then channels - then it will run those through nonlinear neural networks - and into real time vision,thought,sound , evoked potentials , other

Then the artificial general intelligence can based off sequences of evoked potentials or long strings of evoked potentials , or scene recognition artificial intelligence software (google this) , or sound artificial intelligence recognition software (and it also has been modified to thought) -- can then impulse in the specific areas of the brain - the correct electromagnetic flux required to generate artificial thought (words and sentences in order based on what the artificial intelligence or chatbot wants to say but instead of doing it to text or speaker sound will make the output as vector locations of electromagnetic flux on someone's brain to render thought inside their head) --- CAN ALSO DO MOTOR CORTEX ACTIONS TOO for complex movements of a person (ran out of room but this is jist)

So if someone has an evoked potential for a touch , or a pain , or for a sense - then the software will run through a database and then will recruit the correct antennas to fire the correct amount of flux at the correct region of the brain required for the moving of specific muscles to accomplish a specific task or action.

Persons have built a codex software program -- see this paper for an example but this software and integrated system does this remotely at ultra long range - persons can sort an detect electromagnetic waves off a person at ultra long range https://arxiv.org/pdf/2309.14030.pdf
The software has a "codex"

Continuation of K91J9E7E and Submission Reference ID: HZNRJA47

Persons have made it so that artificial general intelligence can respond to the evoked potentials that are coming of a person. Persons have made it so that artificial general intelligence can respond to the "imagined speech/internal speech /internal dialogue of a person" , also made it so the artificial intelligence software can respond to the real time sound a person hears and the real time vision a person sees.

So how it works : it will sort the electromagnetic waves off a persons brain into location and then channels - then it will run those through nonlinear neural networks - and into real time vision,thought,sound , evoked potentials , other

Then the artificial general intelligence can based off sequences of evoked potentials or long strings of evoked potentials , or scene recognition artificial intelligence software (google this) , or sound artificial intelligence recognition software (and it also has been modified to thought) -- can then impulse in the specific areas of the brain - the correct electromagnetic flux required to generate artificial thought (words and sentences in order based on what the artificial intelligence or chatbot wants to say but instead of doing it to text or speaker sound will make the output as vector locations of electromagnetic flux on someone's brain to render thought inside their head) --- CAN ALSO DO MOTOR CORTEX ACTIONS TOO for complex movements of a person .

Persons have made artificial intelligence software that will generate long strings and commands of electromagnetic flux to all the regions of the brain required for thinking , or movement - then based on what that person sees or hears or thinks - it will flux the correct amount of flux required to do a motion , complex action , or complex generation of internal monologue --- it is very advanced software and it is a major felony and human rights violation on what these people are doing .

Persons made it so that it also has object recognition code running and sound recognition code - then the software autonomously will pulse a humans brain so that it will flux the motor cortex of the human and their cranial nerves to get it so that their limbs and facial muscles (or even muscles for talking) will move synthetically and be able to "pilot" them or have them manipulate and use objects or complex actions .

Please report - this is real

Persons hiding what they doing from cia langley with this tech

So if someone has an evoked potential for a touch , or a pain , or for a sense - then the software will run through a database and then will recruit the correct antennas to fire the correct amount of flux at the correct region of the brain required for the moving of specific muscles to accomplish a specific task or action. If a person hears someone - then the waveforms will show up in the remote eeg technology - where they will be sorted and decoded by the correct location of the brain - then it will find and extract the features of the vector basically (and get the evoked potential) - then the software will decide what to do and then will tell the antenna network to flux at the correct region of brain the correct amount of flux per unit time (even if the person is on the move) to get a series of muscles movements , or to generate artificial thought , or to make the person move , or to make a person do something. The system can respond to visual evoked potentials , audio evoked potentials , or pain or sensory evoked potentials - it has been trained off a lot of remote eeg data and is trained and utilizes very complex software

This system exists and FBI has never seen anything like it - it basically allows the "piloting" of a human being - persons are using it to punish and test and injure people with it - There are records and documents and technical documents which will explain this system - persons are threatening to use it and aspects of it on former and current government officials and the software and the direct energy aiming system is even more complex in capability and technical specification than fbi realizes and than described (the software and electrical engineering and antenna components and mathematics done to accomplish are very advance and integrated) . Persons have used it on government officials (the remote eeg and the directed energy capabilities of it) - persons can use covert capabilities integrated in the system and have and persons can use overt capabilities . Persons have used it on government officials when they sleep and also used it to stimulate things like "coughing , sneezing , somatosensory sensations , pain , and other complex generation of synapses)

Persons have and can make it do hotkeys and scripts based off incoming evoked potentials or strings of visual field recognition , sound recognition or thought recognition that it hears or sees passively into hotkeys of directed energy bursts or magnetic or electric flux onto the brain. Persons are also using it on a lot of people domestically (aspects of this software and system) .

Persons are hiding who uses the system , how it works fully , and where it is being operated from (what servers and antennas) from the FBI
